

(3) MiniBeast Hunt

Shown smaller than original

White trays to keep the mini beasts in with some leaves, bark or stones for them to hide in.

A pooter so that we can suck gently through one straw to draw the minibeast into the jar through the other straw.

Magnifying glasses to help us to get a better view.

Mini-hunting for the minibeasts.
We've been so busy, or busy as least!
We've seen them wherever it is, but
How I wonder where we should look...?

Let's look on a wall
Remember to look underneath
We might find a carpet-beetle or a tick,
going "tick, tick, tick, tick!"

Let's look under a log pile...
It's dark but it's warm, there's a long way
We might find some woodlice or a slug,
They're busy in a soft, soggy, polky, soggy!

Let's look in the soil, the dirt,
We can find some worms and a fly,
We might find a mole cricket or a mole,
We might find some going wiggle, wiggle, wiggle!

Let's look on the ground,
Can we see any mould?
We might see some ants who are in a hurry,
They're busy in the ground, busy, busy!

Let's look in the long grass...
It's cooler and the air is fresh,
We might find a spider at home in its web,
Dangling and dangling on a long thread!
